

different "colors"
of quarks attract;
bound quarks form
composite particles

bound quarks can
never be truly separated

attempting to do so
requires so much energy

that you just end up
making more quarks

